1. Foreword & Introduction

1.1 Foreword

Cities are not only systems of infrastructure and services — they are living communities of people, memories, and shared aspirations. Culture, in this sense, is not an accessory to urban life but its connective tissue: it shapes how citizens understand their place in the city, how they relate to each other, and how they imagine what comes next.

The Dialog City project, co-funded by the European Union's Creative Europe programme, set out to explore how cities can use culture and creativity to navigate rapid change — from digital transformation to environmental transition and social inclusion. Between 2021 and 2025, seven (7) organizations representing municipal archive organizations, Vocational/Educational/Training organizations, and civil society organizations in five (5) countries (Aschaffenburg in Germany, Corfu, Patras and Thessaloniki in Greece, Graz in Austria, Mondovì, Torino and Grugliasco in Italy, and Montpellier in France) — worked together with artists, city stakeholders, and citizens to design and test new participatory models of civic engagement and urban transformation within the framework of digital transformation.

This manual distills that collective experience into a practical guide for municipalities, cultural organizations, and community leaders who want to strengthen citizen participation and cultural innovation in their own cities. It presents tested tools, methods, and insights that can help local actors bring people together around shared questions of the future — creatively, inclusively, and sustainably.

1.2 Introduction – Why This Manual?

Every city today faces the challenge of how to stay human in an age of complexity. Digitalization, demographic shifts, and climate pressures are transforming how people live, work, and connect. While technology is changing cities rapidly, it is culture and participation that help citizens make sense of these transformations and shape responses that are inclusive and resilient.

The Dialog City methodology offers a tested approach for integrating artistic, civic, and technological innovation into local governance. It helps city officials and cultural practitioners move from consultation to collaboration — turning cultural events and artistic processes into opportunities for civic dialogue, foresight, and co-creation.

This manual is designed to help you:

- Understand the conceptual foundations of Dialog City and its “transportable” design.
- Apply its step-by-step process to your city's context.

- Access ready-to-use tools and templates to implement creative participation activities.
- Learn from real case studies and impact evidence gathered across Europe.
- It is both a reference and a call to action: an invitation to municipalities to see cultural participation not as a project, but as an ongoing practice of connecting people, policy, and imagination.

1.3 The Three Guiding Principles

The Dialog City methodology is built around three interlinked principles that ensure its relevance and longevity:

Sustainability

Dialog City is not about one-off events but about creating processes that can grow over time. When cultural initiatives are embedded within municipal structures — supported by civil society organization, libraries, archives, and civic networks — they become part of the city's DNA.

Replicability

The project's methods — the Citizen Archive Platform, the Hybrid Festivals, and the Futures Literacy Workshops — are based on universal capacities such as memory, encounter, and imagination. This makes them transferable across cities, regardless of size, geography, or cultural background.

Adaptability

No two cities are alike. The Dialog City approach is modular and flexible. Local stakeholders including municipalities, can apply one or several of its components depending on their priorities and capacities — whether that means organizing a local festival, hosting a workshop, or developing a digital storytelling platform.

Together, these principles form the foundation for a living methodology — one that can evolve through practice and respond to the specific needs of each urban community.

1.4 How to Use this Manual

This manual is designed as a hands-on reference for city administrations, cultural operators, and civic facilitators. You can use it in different ways depending on your role:

City Officials

Learn how to connect cultural policy, community engagement, and foresight in municipal planning.

Cultural Organizations

Use the step-by-step guidance to design participatory events or art residencies.

Educators and Artists

Apply the templates to facilitate Futures Literacy workshops.

Cultural Heritage Organizations and Civic Networks

Adapt the Citizen Archive Platform to collect and share community memory and knowledge.

Civic Networks

Use all tools to collect and share community knowledge.

Each section is modular — you can read it sequentially or focus on the part most relevant to your work. The aim is not to prescribe a formula, but to offer a framework for experimentation: one that any city can adapt to its scale, resources, and ambitions.

“People-centred doesn't mean people-targeted. It means people as co-producers of urban culture.” – Dialog City Consortium

1.5 Glossary of Key Terms

To make the manual easy to navigate, here are the main concepts you'll encounter throughout the text:

Citizen Archive Platform (CAP): A participatory digital tool for collecting and sharing citizens' stories, memories, and experiences related to city life.

Hybrid Festival: A creative and civic event that combines online and offline formats to bring citizens, artists, and decision-makers together.

Futures Literacy: A UNESCO-recognized capability that helps individuals and communities use imagination to better understand and shape change.

Prototyping Urban Futures: A process of designing, testing, and refining small-scale participatory actions that can inform long-term city strategies.

Participatory Governance: Collaborative decision-making involving citizens, institutions, and civil society actors.

Cultural Convenor: A cultural institution or organization that initiates and facilitates dialogue between citizens and city stakeholders.

Civic Anchor: A municipal or regional body that integrates cultural participation into local policies.

Heritage Partner: A museum, archive, or library that provides institutional continuity and connects local memory with future vision.

Transportability Lens: The perspective through which the methodology can be adapted and applied to different city contexts.

1.6 The target groups

Dialog City engaged five groups of stakeholders:

Artists: not only creators but also facilitators of dialogue.

Citizens: the majority of respondents, representing local publics.

Decision makers: municipal leaders, policymakers, cultural officers.

Cultural heritage professionals: museums, archives, and cultural institutions.

Other stakeholders: NGOs, activists, educators, and community partners.

2. The Theoretical Background (The Transportability Lens)

Cities differ in size, resources, and priorities — yet across Europe, they face similar challenges: how to engage citizens meaningfully, how to integrate culture into urban development, and how to imagine long-term change amid uncertainty. The Dialog City methodology was designed precisely to address these questions in a way that can travel — from one context to another, from small towns to larger municipalities.

The “transportability lens” of Dialog City is not a one-size-fits-all solution, but a way of seeing how shared human capacities — storytelling, creativity, anticipation, and dialogue — can form the backbone of participatory urban innovation.

2.1 Why a Transportability Lens?

In traditional city planning, methods often stay tied to a specific local context — a single pilot or initiative that ends when the project does. Dialog City takes a different approach: it builds a methodology that can be reinterpreted.

Transportability here means transfer without losing meaning. The core processes are designed to fit into diverse cultural and administrative systems because they rely on universal, low-threshold mechanisms: cultural participation, open dialogue, and imagination.

When cities look at their challenges — digitalization, social inclusion, environmental adaptation — through the lens of culture and futures thinking, they discover that people themselves are the most adaptable resource.

2.2 Theoretical Foundations

The Dialog City methodology brings together three main theoretical and practical traditions that shape how cities can use culture as a driver for transformation:

Futures Literacy (UNESCO Framework)

Futures Literacy is the skill of imagining multiple possible futures to better understand the present. It empowers people to see uncertainty not as a threat, but as a creative resource. In a municipal context, this means fostering communities that can anticipate and adapt, rather than react.

Participatory Urbanism

Modern cities thrive when citizens are not just audiences, but co-authors of urban life. Participatory urbanism promotes active citizenship and trust between institutions and communities. It shifts governance from “managing” to “co-creating.”

Cultural Ecosystems Thinking

Cultural participation is not an isolated activity; it is part of a living system of education, heritage, and innovation. Recognizing this ecosystem helps municipalities connect cultural actors, schools, and civic groups in sustainable networks.

These frameworks give Dialog City its conceptual backbone — blending foresight, participation, and culture into a methodology that municipalities can apply and adapt.

2.3 The Methodological DNA

At the heart of Dialog City are three interconnected components — the pillars that structure its methodology.

Together, they form a cycle that links memory → encounter → imagination:

1. Citizen Archive Platform (CAP) <> Memory x Digital Participation

- A digital and participatory archive where citizens share stories, memories, and experiences of their city.
- Functions as a living record of how people perceive change, belonging, and identity.
- Anchored in local heritage institutions (archives, museums, libraries) that provide stability and credibility.

2. Hybrid Festivals <> Encounter x Cultural Prototyping

- Public events where citizens, artists, and decision-makers come together to explore issues facing their cities.
- Combine online and onsite formats to maximize inclusivity and visibility.
- Serve as “living laboratories” — testing grounds for new ideas and collaborations between sectors.

3. Futures Literacy Workshops <> Imagination x Skill

- Structured sessions that invite participants to use imagination and foresight to explore alternative urban futures.
- Encourage creative and reflective dialogue between citizens and city leaders.
- Provide municipal staff and partners with tools to design long-term strategies that align with community aspirations.

Each pillar reinforces the others: the Archive gathers insights, the Festivals mobilize participation, and the Workshops generate future-oriented reflection. When combined, they form a loop of engagement and learning that can be adapted to any city context.

2.4 Conditions for Local Adaptation

Experience from the four Dialog City pilot cities — Mondovì (IT), Graz (AT), Montpellier (FR), and Aschaffenburg (DE) — revealed that success depends not on size or wealth, but on readiness to collaborate and openness to experimentation.

For cities wishing to apply the Dialog City approach, the following conditions help ensure effective adaptation:

Condition	Why it Matters	Examples from Practice
City Scale: Small to medium-sized (50,000–500,000 inhabitants)	Large enough for diversity, small enough for intimacy and direct engagement	Montpellier’s local networks made citizen storytelling highly participatory
Cultural Infrastructure: Active municipal cultural departments or agencies	Provide organizational capacity and legitimacy	Graz’s city archive hosted the Citizen Archive Platform
Community Networks: NGOs, associations, and creative collectives	Act as intermediaries connecting citizens with city institutions	Mondovì relied on local organizations to mobilize youth participation
Heritage Partners: Museums, archives, libraries	Anchor the CAP and ensure continuity beyond events	Aschaffenburg’s heritage institutions network linked culture and digital access
Facilitation Skills: Artists and educators with experience in participation	Translate abstract ideas into accessible, engaging activities	Futures Literacy workshops in Patras and Thessaloniki combined art and foresight
Language &amp; Accessibility: Local adaptation and translation	Ensures inclusivity and engagement from diverse audiences	Multilingual facilitation improved comprehension in Aschaffenburg and Montpellier

These are not strict requirements but enabling conditions — the elements that make the methodology come alive in real communities.

2.5 What Makes Dialog City Adaptable

At its essence, the Dialog City model works because it:

- Starts from peoples lived experience instead of abstract data.
- Turns art and culture into civic tools, not just forms of expression.
- Builds trust between citizens and institutions through shared creation.
- Encourages cities to prototype before planning — testing small-scale ideas that can grow.

Through this lens, transportability is not only technical; it is emotional and cultural. It invites every city to reimagine itself not as a finished structure, but as an ongoing dialogue.

Yet, there is 1 (one) precondition: the impact analysis undertaken during the Dialog City project showed that to ensure replication, a host city needs a base of three assets:

- A cultural convenor — an institution or festival that can host and organise the hybrid festival.
- A civic anchor — a municipal or regional office willing to connect the project to policy and participation structures.
- A heritage partner — a museum, archive or library that can host and moderate the CAP beyond the festival itself.

When these three assets align, the project does not feel like a one-off event but a living infrastructure for dialogue.

The team's experience takes this a step further and suggests that for a city to be able to make the most of such a Methodology, ideally it should have a well-established strategy for its identity and where it wants to go in the 21st century.

Let's move into the heart of the Dialog City Methodology Manual:

Section 3 – Step-by-Step Methodology.

This section is written for municipal officials, culture and heritage professionals, and facilitators who want to apply the Dialog City approach in their local context. The tone is instructional but accessible, giving cities a modular roadmap they can adapt to their scale, resources, and communities.

3. Step-by-Step Methodology

A practical roadmap for implementing participatory cultural innovation in your city.

The Dialog City methodology is structured as a five-phase process that cities can follow — whether they are launching a pilot project, expanding an existing cultural program, or embedding participatory tools into municipal planning.

Each phase can be implemented independently or as part of a full cycle. Together, they create a loop of engagement that starts with understanding the local context and ends with reflection and replication.

Phase 1: INITIATE – Setting the Ground

Objective:

Build a foundation of shared purpose, trust, and collaboration among city departments, cultural actors, and citizens. Ideally start from the city's strategy.

Key Actions:

1. Identify a Lead Entity (Cultural Convenor): A municipal office, cultural department, or organization that will coordinate the process.
2. Form a Local Working Group: Bring together representatives from the municipality, heritage institutions, cultural networks, education/training, and civil society.
3. Map Stakeholders and Resources: Identify who is already active in community engagement, creative participation, or digital transformation.

4. Define Common Goals: Frame the initiative around a shared local challenge (e.g., inclusion, heritage, green transition, or digital participation).
5. Communicate Early: Announce intentions transparently — building anticipation and awareness through local media and public channels.

Suggested Tools:

- Unconference event template (Tool I)
- Needs assessment questionnaire template (Tool II)
- Interview questions with citizens and decision makers (Tool III)

Policy Tip:

Cities that involve their cultural and heritage departments from the start ensure smoother collaboration and stronger legitimacy.

Phase 2: ENGAGE – Listening to the City

Objective:

Activate citizen participation and collect the community's stories, needs, and perspectives through creative means.

Key Actions:

1. Adapt and launch the Citizen Archive Platform \(CAP\):
Connect your city archive with the existing CAP where residents can upload born digital stories, images, or reflections about city life.

2. Host Storytelling Sessions: Partner with schools, libraries, NGOs, and artists to gather stories in person and online based on material from the CAP through workshops.
3. Use Inclusive Communication: Ensure accessibility for all — use simple language, translation, and visual materials according to the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) of the EU.
4. Collaborate with Heritage Institutions: Bring onboard local museums, other archives, or libraries as facilitators of the process, not just repositories.
5. Collect and Curate: Use local volunteers, university or Vocational Training students, or cultural mediators to document and curate contributions.

Expected Outputs:

- A growing digital archive of citizen narratives.
- Increased visibility for community voices.
- Enhanced sense of belonging among participants.

Suggested Tools:

- Template MoU with heritage organizations (Tool IV)
- Citizen Archive Platform (CAP) (Tool V)

Policy Tip:

Treat the Citizen Archive Platform as a long-term civic infrastructure — not just a digital platform. Embed it within municipal and heritage systems for sustainability.

Phase 3: CO-CREATE – Bringing People Together

Objective:

Translate collected insights into shared experiences that inspire collaboration and creativity.

Key Actions:

1. Design a Hybrid Festival or Event as part of a major city event: Align with an established city festival/event and combine artistic expression, dialogue, and digital interaction. Possible formats: exhibitions, performances, workshops, Game Jams, and Artist Residencies.
2. Include Multiple Audiences: Youth, seniors, minorities directly or through NGOs, entrepreneurs, educators, and local administrators should all have a voice.
3. Highlight Local Talent or bring from outside: Collaborate with artists, designers, and community groups who interpret the city's challenges creatively. Alternatively, bring a different view from artists outside the city with an Open Call for Artist Residency.
4. Document the Process: Capture video, photography, and testimonials for ongoing communication and evaluation.

Expected Outputs:

- Increased citizen participation and civic pride.

Phase 4: IMAGINE – Thinking About Futures

Objective:

Empower participants to anticipate change, reflect on possibilities, and co-design visions for the future(s) of their city.

When to Use It

When planning future editions, writing proposals, or convincing stakeholders.

What It Looks Like

A concise report containing:

- Theoretical background
- Lessons learned
- Conditions for replication
- Sustainability recommendations of the project results

How to Adapt It

- Cities can replicate the evaluation format for their own festivals or city initiatives.

How to Combine the Tools

The tools and templates provided in the Dialog City Methodology are designed to work together as a flexible ecosystem. You can use them individually or as a full cycle depending on your city's needs, capacity, and cultural ecosystem.

Below is a simplified map of how each tool supports the five phases of the Dialog City process.

Phase 1 — Initiate

Set the foundation, build alliances, understand your context.

Tools to use:

- Needs Assessment Questionnaire (Tool II) — understand local priorities
- Interview Questions (Tool III) — collect deeper insights
- MoU Template with Heritage Organizations (Tool IV) — formalize partnerships

Outcome:

A clear picture of your local ecosystem and the commitment of key institutions.

Phase 2 — Engage

Invite communities to participate, collect stories, build trust.

Tools to use:

- Interview Questions (Tool III)
- Unconference Template (Tool I) — open discussion spaces
- Trained Facilitators List (Tool VIII) — to support engagement

Outcome:

Rich input from citizens and stakeholders, ready to be integrated into the Citizen Archive Platform or event planning.

Phase 3 — Co-Create

Design the program, festival, or residency with partners and communities.

Tools to use:

- Artist Residency Open Call (Tool V)
- Artist Residency Contract (Tool VI)
- Examples of Festival Programmes (Tool VII)

Outcome:

A co-created cultural program that reflects local needs and mobilizes artistic and civic actors.

Phase 4 — Imagine

Run creative workshops and cultural activities that explore future possibilities.

Tools to use:

- Training Guidebook & Toolkit (Tool IX)
- Trained Facilitators List (Tool VIII)

Outcome:

Participants imagine alternative futures, build new skills, and generate prototypes and ideas.

Phase 5 — Reflect

Evaluate outcomes, identify impact, and plan next steps.

Tools to use:

- Evaluation Matrix with KPIs (Tool XI)
- Dialog City Impact Report (Tool XII)
- Final Conference Programme Template (Tool X)

Outcome:

A clear understanding of what worked, what needs improvement, and how to carry the process into the next cycle.

Cycle Renewal — (Re-)Initiate

Use insights to start a new iteration of Dialog City with stronger foundations.

Insights from Phase 5 become inputs for a new Phase 1.

Cities often identify:

- New thematic priorities
- New communities to involve
- Stronger partnerships
- Long-term structural opportunities

This iterative loop is what makes Dialog City sustainable and scalable.

5. Case Studies

Four European cities experimenting with culture-driven participatory futures.

The Dialog City methodology was tested across four diverse urban contexts. Each city applied the same core DNA of Hybrid Festival → Futures Literacy Workshops → Citizen Archive — but adapted the approach to its own cultural ecosystem, infrastructure, and community needs.

These short case studies provide you with practical insights into how the methodology behaves in different environments and timing— what works well, what requires adaptation, and what conditions influence success.

5.1 Mondovì (Italy, 2023)

Reconnecting Space and Community

Context:

Mondovì is a medium-sized city with a strong identity rooted in local heritage, craftsmanship, and community cohesion. Culture plays a visible role in civic life, and institutions such as archives and museums enjoy public trust.

What Was Done:

- A Hybrid Festival brought together youth groups, heritage professionals, artists, and decision-makers.
- A Game Jam highlighted local memories, migration stories, and perceptions of urban change.
- Futures Literacy workshops engaged both young people and cultural operators.

Outcomes:

- Exceptional citizen participation due to local networks and trust in cultural institutions.
- The festival produced community-driven ideas around mobility, cultural spaces, and youth engagement.

Lessons for stakeholders:

- Medium-sized cities with close-knit communities adapt quickly to participatory models.
- Local educators are powerful catalysts.

5.2 Graz (Austria, 2024)

Digital Culture Meets Civic Dialogue

Context:

Graz is culturally vibrant and technologically advanced, with an active innovation ecosystem. However, it faced challenges engaging broader publics beyond cultural insiders and tech-savvy communities.

What Was Done:

- A Hybrid Festival focused on digital participation, creative exploration, and community discussion.
- The CAP was publicly launched and tested by citizens and heritage professionals and inputs were collected with the help of archivists.
- Workshops explored how digital transformation influences belonging and identity.

Outcomes:

- High-quality creative outputs from the Arist Residency.
- Citizens appreciated opportunities to reflect on technology's social impact.
- However, participation remained fragile due to limited intermediary organizations connecting disadvantaged citizens.

Lessons for stakeholders:

- Digital literacy cannot be assumed — facilitation and translation are essential.
- NGOs and community mediators play a crucial bridging role.
- Festivals must be accessible physically, digitally, and linguistically.

5.3 Montpellier (France, 2025)

Culture as a Laboratory for Urban Futures

Context:

Montpellier has strong academic and cultural infrastructures, with citizens used to participating in public dialogue. The city is diverse, dynamic, and open to experimental formats.

What Was Done:

- A visually rich Futures Festival was organized as part of the Festival des Architectures Vives de Montpellier, combining an outdoor installation of a wooden Pavillion with a guided tour of the building where it was exposed in, an Artist Residency exhibition and demos, and a Game Jam.
- The Game Jam explored alternative urban realities through speculative game design, and scenario-building.

Outcomes:

- Cultural institutions became active allies, integrating the approach into their own mediation strategies.

- The festival attracted new audiences, including young creatives and migrant communities.

Lessons for stakeholders:

- Artist-led facilitation can redefine how people see their role in shaping city futures.
- Heritage professionals help maintain continuity and quality.
- Visual storytelling enhances accessibility and engagement.

5.4 Aschaffenburg (Germany, 2025)

Archives as Civic Infrastructure

Context:

Aschaffenburg has a strong municipal archive system and a city administration committed to civic participation. This created the ideal conditions for CAP to flourish.

What Was Done:

- The city archive took a leading role in curating the Citizen Archive Platform.
- The Hybrid Festival connected artistic performances with discussions about urban change.
- Workshops focused on how archives can become living spaces for participatory governance.

Outcomes:

- CAP contributions were rich, well-documented, and diverse.
- The city recognized the archive as a long-term civic infrastructure for participation.
- Political representatives actively participated, increasing legitimacy.

Lessons for Municipalities:

- When a civic anchor (municipal archive, cultural office) takes ownership, sustainability improves dramatically.
- Heritage institutions can transform into active facilitators of community futures.
- Decision-maker participation strengthens trust and continuity.

5.5 Synthesis Across All Cities

Across the four contexts, several patterns emerged:

What worked well everywhere:

- Using culture to spark dialogue.
- Involving artists as facilitators of public imagination.
- Combining memory (CAP) with futures (workshops) to create a full cycle of reflection.

What varied across cities:

- The strength of local networks.
- Readiness of municipal staff.
- Accessibility for diverse citizens.
- Capacity to facilitate digital participation.

Key takeaway:

The methodology is highly transportable, but its success depends on cultivating:

- a cultural convenor,
- a civic anchor,
- and a heritage partner — the “three anchors” that enable sustained participatory innovation.

6. Evaluation & Impact

What Dialog City changed — and what cities can learn from it.

The Dialog City project collected 158 responses from citizens, artists, cultural professionals, and decision-makers across four Hybrid Festivals (Mondovì, Graz, Montpellier, Aschaffenburg) between 2023 and 2025. These responses, combined with observation, workshop records, and partner reflections, offer a clear picture of short-term impact and future potential.

This section highlights the most relevant findings for municipalities and other stakeholders, considering adopting the methodology.

6.1 What Stakeholders Told Us

Across all cities and languages, participants expressed strong agreement with the following:

✓ Art and culture help people understand social and technological change.

Most respondents — especially citizens — said cultural activities improved their ability to reflect on digital transformation, climate challenges, and new urban realities.

✓ Culture increases a sense of belonging.

People felt more connected to their city when they were invited to co-create festivals, share stories, or participate in workshops.

✓ Participatory formats empower citizens.

Hybrid Festivals and Futures Literacy workshops helped residents see themselves as active contributors rather than passive observers.

✓ EU-funded projects are valuable.

The majority believed that European initiatives like Dialog City offer useful tools for navigating urban transitions — especially digital and social transformations.

6.2 Cross-Cutting Findings

Belonging & Identity

Dialog City strengthened feelings of belonging by giving residents opportunities to share meaningful stories and experiences.

Digital Transformation Awareness

Events helped participants understand how digital change affects their lives — bridging a gap between technology and everyday citizens.

Environmental Awareness (Green Deal)

When asked about environmental concerns:

- Citizens emphasized resource depletion and digital energy consumption.
- Many were unaware of broader EU Green Deal objectives.

Opportunity:

Integrate sustainability narratives into CAP stories and festival content.

Gender & Diversity Inclusion

Most participants felt activities were inclusive, though some suggested:

- additional outreach to women, seniors, and migrant communities;
- more multilingual materials.

6.3 The Big Picture: What Dialog City Achieved

Across four cities, Dialog City demonstrated that:

- Culture is a strategic asset for engaging citizens with complex topics.
- Hybrid events and creative methods generate trust and collaboration.
- Futures Literacy is a useful civic skill, not an abstract concept.
- Participatory approaches are scalable when supported by the right partners.
- Municipalities can act as hosts of imagination, not just administrators.

Above all, the project created a replicable ecosystem that cities can adapt:

Memory → Dialogue → Imagination → Policy → Renewal

This cycle is the foundation of sustainable, participatory urban futures.

7. Conclusion

The Dialog City Methodology Manual brings together three years of experimentation, community engagement, and cultural innovation across seven European cities. What began as a Creative Europe project has evolved into a flexible, human-centred approach that any municipality and heritage organization — regardless of size, resources, or cultural infrastructure — can adapt to strengthen civic participation and build resilient urban futures.

At the heart of the methodology are three simple principles:

1. Cities thrive when people are invited into the conversation.

Citizens' stories, memories, hopes, and concerns are not just cultural expressions — they are essential data for understanding how a city lives, changes, and aspires. Structured through the Citizen Archive Platform, these narratives become a foundation for more responsive and informed decision-making.

2. Cultural participation is a powerful engine for collective imagination.

Hybrid Festivals, artist residencies, and Futures Literacy workshops create accessible spaces where residents, institutions, and other stakeholders can meet as equals. These encounters help cities explore new forms of belonging, strengthen trust, and mobilize creativity in service of public good.

3. Urban transformation requires long-term structures, not one-off events.

For sustainability, the methodology provides processes that can be repeated, scaled, and integrated into existing cultural, educational, or municipal systems. The tools like the templates and the Training Guide are designed for reuse — encouraging cities to continuously refine their participatory practices.

Together, these components form a transportable and adaptive model that cities can implement based on their own environment, needs, and ambitions. Whether used to energize a cultural programme, enrich policy consultations, or build multi-stakeholder coalitions, the Dialog City methodology enables communities to explore who they are today — and who they want to become tomorrow.

This manual is therefore not an end point, but an invitation.

An invitation for cities to rethink their role, to cultivate imagination as a civic skill, and to grow cultures of participation that endure beyond projects and funding cycles.

The future of Europe's cities depends on our ability to listen, collaborate, and imagine together.

With the tools offered in this manual, every city can take the next step on that journey.

DIALOG CITY

In recent years, the term Smart City has become deeply embedded in our language and thought patterns. It means a digitized city that uses technology to collect data, control processes and offer services. This ranges from electronic administration via self-driving public transport to smart solutions for building management. Almost every area that is data-intensive can be recorded, analysed and optimized accordingly. The European project DIALOG CITY was born out of the conviction that digital transformation is more of a mindset rather than a purely technical innovation.

Hence the overall goal of DIALOG CITY is to create a socially inclusive, environmentally friendly, and economically sustainable urban digital environment. By developing new practices on how to connect digital innovation directly to citizens' physical participation, DIALOG CITY aims at contributing to increase access to culture through a dialogical approach.

Participation is at the core of our project idea encompassing a CITIZEN ARCHIVE PLATFORM for the cultural heritage sector and an innovative design thinking toolkit on FUTURE LITERACY. Three HYBRID FESTIVALS serve as physical and digital cultural platforms to reach diverse audiences in five European countries. An ART FOR PUBLIC residency programme invites artists to develop ideas for urban interventions dealing with local or global topics that are of great significance for the respective urban society based on participatory approach.

DIALOG CITY kicks off with a one-day UNCONFERENCE (BAR CAMP) based on an open space format approach. European project partners invite external experts, artists, stakeholders, decision-makers and the interested public to discuss topics such as participation, digitisation, urban development, art and public, future literacy, personal digital archiving and digital rights.

Why UNCONFERENCE? At any classical conference you'll often find some dry, uninspiring performances among the batch of interesting lectures. However, excitement comes during the break when you get the time to chat with the other participants and reflect on the lecture/ performance. Most importantly, you get the chance to get connected.

This is at the very core of an UNCONFERENCE or BAR CAMP philosophy: it's about harnessing the knowledge of all participants and to circulate ideas. Everyone is a potential associate and can contribute to the event. There's no hierarchy between speakers, guests and listeners.

Der Begriff Smart City hat sich in den letzten Jahren tief in unsere Sprach- und Denkmuster eingebrannt. Er beschreibt eine digitalisierte Stadt, die Technologie nutzt, um Daten zu sammeln, Prozesse zu steuern und Dienstleistungen anzubieten. Das reicht von elektronischen Verwaltungsdiensten über selbstfahrende öffentliche Verkehrsmittel bis hin zu intelligenten Lösungen für das Gebäudemanagement. Nahezu jeder datenintensive Bereich kann heute entsprechend erfasst, analysiert und optimiert werden.

Das europäische Projekt DIALOG CITY ist aus der Überzeugung heraus entstanden, dass pure technische Innovation viel zu kurz greift. Es bedarf einer neuen Denkweise, um die digitale Transformation begreifbar und anwendbar zu machen. Ziel von DIALOG CITY ist es deshalb, sozial-integrative, umweltfreundliche und wirtschaftlich nachhaltige Strukturen mit urbaner Digitalisierung zu verbinden.

Mitmachen steht daher im Mittelpunkt. Mit der Entwicklung neuer Ansätze wird digitale Innovation an die unmittelbare Beteiligung der Bürger:innen geknüpft. Die Erstellung eines digitalen BÜRGERARCHIVS ist dabei ein wesentliches Element unseres europäischen Projektes. Drei HYBRID FESTIVALS dienen als physisch-digitale Kulturveranstaltungen, um ein vielfältiges Publikum in fünf europäischen Ländern zu erreichen. Ein ART FOR PUBLIC-Residenzprogramm lädt Künstler:innen ein, auf der Grundlage eines partizipativen Ansatzes Ideen für urbane Interventionen zu produzieren. Und die Entwicklung eines FUTURE LITERACY Programms bietet die Möglichkeit, Zukunft neu zu denken und sie heute, hier und jetzt mitzugestalten.

Auftakt des Projekts ist eine eintägige UNCONFERENCE (BAR CAMP). Die europäischen Projektpartner laden externe Expert:innen, Künstler:innen, Entscheidungsträger:innen und die interessierte Öffentlichkeit ein, um Themen wie Partizipation, Digitalisierung, Stadtentwicklung, Kunst und Öffentlichkeit, Zukunftskompetenz, persönliche digitale Archivierung und digitale Rechte zu diskutieren.

Warum UNCONFERENCE? Auf klassischen Konferenzen finden sich neben vielen interessanten Vorträgen oft trockene, wenig inspirierende Darbietungen. Die wertvollsten Momente sind zumeist die Pausen. Dann ist Zeit, sich mit anderen Teilnehmer:innen zu unterhalten, gemeinsam nachzudenken und sich zu vernetzen. Dies ist der wesentliche Kern der UNCONFERENCE- oder BAR CAMP-Philosophie: Es geht darum, das Wissen ALLER zu nutzen und Ideen zu verbreiten.

Tool III — Interview Questions for Citizens & Decision Makers

In-depth Interview Guide

Capacities development towards the Smart City transformation

Thank you for agreeing on the interview. We are performing research on digital transition in the city and the Smart City concept in Germany, Greece, Austria, Italy and France. The research is conducted in the framework of the project "DIALOG CITY – A holistic approach towards a digital cultural infrastructure in European cities", funded by the Creative Europe Programme of the European Union. The consortium of the project consists of 7 organizations from 5 different countries: Municipality of Aschaffenburg - Germany, CulturePolis – Greece, STADTMUSEUM GRAZ GMBH - Austria, FONDAZIONE CIRKO VERTIGO ETS - Italy, QUATORZE - France, CENTRO FORMAZIONE PROFESSIONALE CEBANO MONREGALESE S.C.A.R.L. - Italy and CONSORZIO INTERAZIENDALE CANAVESANO PER LA FORMAZIONE PROFESSIONALE CIAC S.C.R.L. - Italy.

The target group of the interviews is citizens, artists and decision makers from small and medium sized European cities. The information you provide will be treated in strict confidence under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) put into effect on May 25, 2018 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data.

During the interview we will discuss the needs and current capacity towards the Smart City concept in our country and communities. In particular, the role of artists in helping people imagine their future.

Background theory:

FUTURE LITERACY is the skill that allows people to better understand the role that the future plays in what they see and do. People can become more skilled at 'using the future', more 'future literate', because of two facts: One is that the future does not yet exist, it can only be imagined. Two is that humans have the ability to imagine. As a result, humans are able to learn to imagine the future for different reasons and in different ways.

The CCI sector is the enabler of the aforementioned stages. The capacity building process will be conducted in a more creative and innovative way through DIALOG CITY FESTIVALS and design workshops to express local vision and expectations through art (e.g. photography, storytelling, installations around the city, hands-on workshops, etc.). This way, artists and creatives will act as facilitators to help the audience and participants to think, to visualize and to imagine the future through artistic means. To this end it contributes to the role that culture plays in sustainable development at the local level.

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

ART FOR PUBLIC RESIDENCY IN ASCHAFFENBURG

The annual FUTURE FESTIVALS serve as both analogue and digital platforms for the EU project DIALOG CITY, aiming to reach a broad and diverse audience. The participating European cities included Mondoví (IT) in 2023 and Graz (AT) in 2024. The artistic projects developed during these residencies were showcased on-site at the FUTURE FESTIVALS as well as presented online. The next FUTURE FESTIVAL will take place in 2025, organized by Aschaffenburg (DE) and Montpellier (FR). Each city will host its own artist residency.

The DIALOG CITY ART FOR PUBLIC RESIDENCY PROGRAMME invites artists from all disciplines—ranging from painting, photography, and sculpture to design and architecture—to apply for the residency in Aschaffenburg. The residency takes place under the theme Society in Transition. We particularly welcome project proposals that highlight aspects of sustainability and/or cultural heritage. Aschaffenburg is a city with a rich and diverse cultural heritage. For years, conscious sustainability has been a focus of the city, alongside a human-centred and dialogue-oriented digital transformation with DIALOG CITY as the digital strategy of the City of Aschaffenburg.

Notably, the city has a diverse and influential history in the paper industry: since the mid-19th century, Aschaffenburg has been known as the "City of Coloured Papers" due to its many paper factories. Entrepreneurs like Alois Dessauer have pioneered efforts that have made paper production inseparable from the economic prosperity, technological change, and ultimately the cultural identity of the city. Curiosity, courage, and inventiveness exemplify an open and inclusive society.

The project proposal—whether digital or analogue approach—should address various aspects of this theme in a participatory manner and express it artistically. The selected artist will have the opportunity to work in a public FUTURE PAVILION to realize their creative ideas. There are no limits to imagination!

The artist residency begins on May 2, 2025, and ends on July 15, 2025.

THE DIALOG CITY PROJECT

The EU co-funded DIALOG CITY project represents an innovative approach to shaping the digital-cultural future of European cities. It involves seven European partners organizing various activities aimed at developing ideas that enable all citizens to actively participate in our society's digital transformation while implementing their own visions. Citizen participation is therefore an essential aspect of this project; an example being the concept of a transnational digital citizen archive called CITIZEN ARCHIVE PLATFORM \(CAP\), jointly developed by the City Archives of Aschaffenburg and Graz City Archives.

DIALOG CITY

A holistic approach towards a digital cultural infrastructure in European cities

Our DIALOG CITY ART FOR PUBLIC RESIDENCY PROGRAMME invites professional artists to develop ideas for urban interventions dealing with local or global topics that are of great significance for the respective urban society based on participatory approach. By developing new practices on how to connect digital innovation directly to citizens' physical participation, the European cooperation project DIALOG CITY aims at contributing to increase access to culture through a dialogical approach. Co-creation is at the core, encompassing a CITIZEN ARCHIVE PLATFORM for the cultural heritage sector and an innovative design thinking toolkit on FUTURE LITERACY.

Annual HYBRID FESTIVALS serve as physical and digital cultural platforms to reach diverse audiences. Participating European cities are Mondoví (IT) in 2023, Graz (AT) in 2024, Aschaffenburg (DE) and Montpellier (FR) in 2025. The resulting art works of the respective residencies will be shown locally during the annual Hybrid FESTIVAL as well as online. The Call for 2024 is now open for the residency in Graz (Austria).

For the Graz residency we aim to prevent data loss and enhance our cultural heritage profile. In the digital era, it is crucial that sources remain preserved for future generations. To address this, we are in the process of developing a collaborative digital tool designed for the long-term preservation of personal digital objects. The CITIZEN ARCHIVE PLATFORM is a user-friendly platform where individuals can submit various types of data-based objects, including images, videos, audio files, texts, and more. These submissions can be stored by memory institutions such as archives or museums and subsequently integrated into a professional, non-profit archival system.

This innovative tool will empower citizens to actively participate in collection initiatives by memory institutions. It also provides a straightforward method for individuals to upload their personal digital content and directly offer it to a specific participating archive. Through the Citizen Archive Platform, we are creating an accessible bridge between the public and archival institutions, ensuring that our digital heritage is safeguarded.

DIALOG CITY GUIDING PRINCIPLES

For approaching the future, it is crucial enabling people to process memory, collect cultural heritage and to create future literacy skills. We want to empower citizens to imagine, design and deal with their own analogue and digital future before others do it for them. To approach all these aspects, the project contains of four angles:

DATA CITY: We want to discuss and to learn in an agile manner what constitutes current and future models of success in digitization without focusing solely on economic aspects.

SOCIETY CITY: During the hybrid events, not only individuals but also cultural organisations as well as all kind of associations will be included. We also invite non-formal groups and activists to take part in the events and give them a platform for discourse.

TOMORROW CITY: We plan and discuss which location-based technologies and services have to be used, how and with which content in order to make art and culture a participatory part of a city.

GREEN CITY DIGITAL: Making data visible can represent the actual state of play and can then define goals and measures for ecological change that can be designed and implemented by the citizens themselves.

Open Call Art for Public

DIALOG CITY - ARTIST RESIDENCY – MONTPELLIER, FRANCE 2025

A holistic approach towards a digital cultural infrastructure in European cities

By developing new practices to connect digital innovation directly to citizens' physical participation, DIALOG CITY aims to increase access to culture through a dialogical approach.

Our DIALOG CITY ART FOR PUBLIC RESIDENCY PROGRAMME invites professional artists to develop ideas for urban interventions dealing with local or global topics that are of great significance for the respective urban society based on participatory approach. By developing new practices on how to connect digital innovation directly to citizens' physical participation, the European cooperation project DIALOG CITY aims at contributing to increasing access to culture through a dialogical approach. Co-creation is at the core, encompassing a CITIZEN ARCHIVE PLATFORM for the cultural heritage sector and an innovative design thinking toolkit on FUTURE LITERACY.

Annual FUTURE FESTIVALS serve as physical and digital cultural platforms to reach diverse audiences. Participating European cities are Mondoví (IT) in 2023, Graz (AT) in 2024, Aschaffenburg (DE) and Montpellier (FR) in 2025. The resulting art works of the respective residencies will be shown locally during the FUTURE FESTIVAL as well as online.

For the Montpellier residency we aim to question how human identities and bodies are increasingly shaped by the digital data we produce and consume. Being fed by data, our online profiles reflect analog humans and are continuously constructed through micro-targeting and digital profiling, where personal data is used to tailor content and experiences. In return, this blending of the digital and analog worlds creates new opportunities for self-expression and understanding, yet also raises concerns around identities and self-development. With an uncanny feeling, this flow of information can both expand and limit how we perceive the analog world and ourselves, depending on how we engage with it.

DIALOG CITY GUIDING PRINCIPLES

For approaching the future, it is crucial enabling people to process memory, collect cultural heritage and to create future literacy skills. Dialog City aims at empowering citizens to imagine, design and deal with their own analogue and digital future before others do it for them. To embrace all these aspects, the artistic residency project may approach four categories. The artist shall target one or more of the topics below:

LIVING CITY

Focusing on minimising environmental impact while promoting social equity and economic viability, incorporating renewable energy, efficient resource use, green spaces, and resilient infrastructure to ensure long-term well-being for both residents and the environment. Sustainability is at the core of the Living City which intends to take care of all living beings in the past, present and future. How may digital infrastructure enable humans to (re)connect with all sorts of living beings within cities?

EDIBLE CITY

Data is food for thought and humans seem hungry for data. Yet, our bodies and human condition remain. Questioning our relation to our own self and to nature, the edible city calls for reclaiming a bodily experience within urban spaces. By questioning food production into the city's infrastructure, public and private spaces, it emphasises on sustainability and greater self-sufficiency. The edible city supports citizens to engage in food-growing activities within their own neighbourhoods thus attempting to promote greener, more resilient cities in an era of predation toward natural resources. Microbiotes prove that our body is an ecosystem, the digestion process is collective. How do humans as body and digital twin process the ongoing data deluge they live in?

HUMAN & NON-HUMAN CITY

Gathering bodies existing here and there in the physical space as well as digital twins within the web, the human / non-human cities question the day-to-day experience of intertwined beings and our modes of existence as Bruno Latour proposes. Living beings, objects, technologies, material and immaterial artefacts such as institutions have their own agency, shaped by its own will and infinite connections to other beings, humans or not. Challenging the traditional human-centred standpoint, the human and non-human city assumes that connections play a crucial role in shaping social and political life. Between free will and unconsciousness, how can we shape the ongoing digital memories?

COLLABORATIVE CITY

Originally, the web was intended to be a collaborative space as Tim Berners-Lee states it. Enrooted in the city making, nowadays, the internet plays a crucial role in the possibility of creating collaborative cities where citizens, local governments, and stakeholders work together, co-create and manage public spaces, services and infrastructure. Embracing participatory governance and decision-making, as well as collective action, how may the collaborative city build more inclusive, resilient, and socially connected urban environments?

Unsere gemeinsame Zukunft nachhaltig,

das ist das Ziel des partizipativen EU-
Projektes DIALOG CITY.

Partnerinnen und Partner aus Österreich, Frankreich, Italien und Griechenland sind an dem Projekt beteiligt. Koordiniert wird es vom Stadt- und Stiftsarchiv Aschaffenburg.

In diesem Jahr findet das Projekt mit einer Künstlerresidenz von Lisa Maria Baier am Schlossplatz und Café Krèm (02.05.-15.07.2025), einer Mitmach-Ausstellung (12.06.-14.09.2025) und dem FUTURE FESTIVAL (01.07.-05.07.2025) an verschiedenen Orten in Aschaffenburg statt und feiert damit seinen Abschluss. Ein Game Jam, mehrere Workshops, ein Theaterstück und eine Coffee Lecture zu verschiedenen digitalen Themen erwarten Euch!

Das FUTURE FESTIVAL findet im Rahmen der Aschaffener Kulturtag statt. Mitdenken, mitmachen und mitgestalten stehen dabei im Vordergrund!

Tool XII — Evaluation Matrix with KPIs

GENERAL ORGANIZATION

4 blocks of interest are identified for the M&E of the project:

- *Outputs and outcomes
- *Effects and impacts
- *Cross-cutting priorities
- *Sustainability (divided in 2 blocks: project's sustainability, and contribution to the Sustainable Development Goals - SDGs)

For each block, we identify “evaluation axes”, which define our focuses, and for each axe, one or several indicators.

For each indicator, we define:

- *Data collection tools (how to collect and analyze data?).
- *Data collection frequencies (how often will we collect and process data?).
- *Responsibilities (who will collect and analyze data?)

NB: some indicators can be relevant in several "blocks"; if so, they will be monitor only once, but analyzed in different ways, depending on the blocks (ex: sustainability and impact, etc.).

This matrix structures the M&E system as a whole ; it will also be a compass for the midterm and final evaluations.

SPECIFICATIONS ABOUT OUTPUTS & OUTCOMES

In this block, we identified the main indicators to monitor and evaluate the success of the activities within the 3 pillars of the project : Archiving our city, Our common future and Dialog city events and art for public residencies.

SPECIFICATIONS ABOUT EFFECTS & IMPACT

In the project application, the consortium members identified 3 different temporalities of impact:

*Short-term impact, by the end of project's lifetime (December 2025).

*Medium-term impact (3 years after the project's lifetime).

*Long-term impact (six years after the project lifetime).

To be realistic, we decided to elaborate, monitor and evaluate indicators only for the short term-impact; the M&E of the medium and long-term impact would need a dedicated ex-post evaluation. Nevertheless, we could at least elaborate some assumptions about medium and long-term impact in the final evaluation, according to the objective findings and conclusions we will produce.

Furthermore, CulturePolis leads an ongoing impact analysis, with the creation of 1 questionnaire that will be implemented several times all along the project; this questionnaire is adapted to the needs of each case used. This impact analysis is part of the ongoing project management and is a part of the formative evaluation. In addition, Cota is responsible of the general impact and effects assessment, in a summative way. We will pay attention to the articulation of these two exercises. This M&E matrix has been build considering this point of attention.

SPECIFICATIONS ABOUT CROSS-CUTTING PRIORITIES

In this block, we deal with two main topics:

*Environment

*Gender equality and diversity

For each topic, we defined indicators which allows us to monitor and evaluate how the project management took these two topics into account, and how they are understood by the project's audiences.

SPECIFICATIONS ABOUT SUSTAINABILITY

Within the DC project, sustainability is understood like the process ensuring the continuation of the activities, notably by identifying lessons learned and good practices, in order to design and develop the next steps of the project.

To monitor and evaluate sustainability, we refer to the definition of this evaluation criteria by the OECD DAC network on Development Evaluation, which is the following: "The extent to which the net benefits of the intervention continue, or are likely to continue."

Furthermore, we will also monitor and evaluate sustainability regarding some of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), in order to illustrate how the DC project contributes to this global compass for social and human development.

ENVIRONMENT
Future literacy is a capability that allows people to better understand the role that the future plays in what they see and do. People can become more skilled at 'using the future', more 'future literate', for two reasons: the future does not yet exist, it can only be imagined; humans have the ability to imagine. As a result, humans are able to learn to imagine the future for different reasons and in different ways.	Proportion of citizens reached by the project who better understand the role that the future plays in what they see and do (with a focus on environmental issues)	0	80	The ongoing impact questionnaire shows that XX understand sustainability	After the workshops with citizens facilitated by artists taking part in the Train-the-Trainers workshop programme in collaboration with UNESCO Chair Open University Cyprus. The European Green Deal aims to transform the EU into a modern, resource-efficient society. The DC proposal provides a concrete action plan for a new mindset regarding this change. The interplay of the three project pillars and their objectives aims to create tangible products and intangible outcomes to contribute to the adaptation of our coexistence under the auspices of radical changes. All target groups will benefit from this.	Proportion of people involved and/or reached by the DC project ( artists and cultural heritage professionals, decision makers, stakeholder and citizens directly involved in the implementation process ) who are sensitive and/or involved in a new societal model in coherence with the European Green Deal mindset and dispositions	0	100	The ongoing impact questionnaire shows that XX are aware. 	Proportion of project partners using recycled products for administrative purposes	0	80%	Specific questionnaire	Based on questionnaire responses from all XX partners, the use of recycled products in administrative activities is widespread, though the proportion varies significantly. All of them reported using some recycled items, commonly including recycled paper for printing and general stationery like pens and folders. The estimated proportion of recycled supplies ranges from 10% to 60%, with several organisations reporting figures around 50%. Key challenges were identified by more than half of the respondents (X from XX), with higher procurement costs being the most frequently cited barrier. Other obstacles include the limited availability of certain recycled products and specific requirements for archival-quality or high-visibility materials that constrain broader adoption.
